

Businesses can register for the annual JOB Discovery Career Fair through February 19th

Job Discovery 2010, the region's premiere job fair, will be held on Thursday, March 18th from 10am-5pm at Adirondack Community College. Organizers are now registering local businesses to participate. The cost is $150.00 which includes a professional booth, advertising and more. Those interested are encouraged to register early because this event sells out each year.

The event will shift focus this year to more of a career fair where information is provided about businesses and the types of jobs that exist and how to best prepare for them. Local businesses traditionally use this event to help fill both immediate openings and network with potential candidates for future consideration. This will still be encouraged to the extent businesses have opportunities. Training facilities to prepare individuals for future employment are also encouraged to register.

This will be the 22nd annual event which attracts an average of over 2000 attendees each year. Organizers stated that individuals come to participate in job search and career related workshops, have their resumes reviewed, discover job search resources and services, and most importantly visit with over 60 exhibitors to discuss employment opportunities and find out more about local employers. The job fair is free and open to any individual seeking employment or a job change. Opportunities traditionally include full and part time year round jobs as well as seasonal jobs.

Any interested business that would like to participate can contact Tim Lahey at 743-2277 for registration forms or more information.
